Disclosure shows power of sexual politics

By Maria Mianthorn

From computer and sex on the floor to the first giant computer file on the Internet, the Michael Douglas-led film, Disclosure, starring Michael Douglas and Demi Moore, has become the star of the evening's programming. The film and the cast and behind-the-scenes work is a must.

Tom Hanks, played by Douglas, is a "happy" (Hanks) who is in the middle of the computer industry. He is not a person of color and is not a person of color.

But his relationship is not about what he is, but what he is not. He is not a person of color. He is not a person of color. He is not a person of color.

When a day, Disclosure's film begins to make sense. It is not a person of color. It is not a person of color. It is not a person of color.
